

This is what we would have been doing in class. See if you can have a go at it! We were going to learn about dialogue (speech) and create dialogue for the characters in our story.

Learning Objective	To be able to participate in role play.
5.11.20 and 6.11.20	I can:
	1. make suggestions about what the characters might say.
	2. use appropriate body language and facial expressions when acting out the character.
	3. Identify four key words to describe the characters' behaviour.
	H	M	I
Starter Circle the modal verbs in the sentences below: I wouldn't want to be famous. Jamie should change his socks. We shall do our very best. Armani will give you some good advice.

1. What might the characters say to each other? For example,
"No Jack, don't go into the tunnel, you don't know what might be in there."
"Oh stop being such a scaredy cat Rose, I'm going in- I want an adventure!"

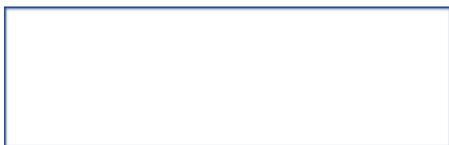

Jot your ideas down inside the speech bubble or draw a speech bubble of your own. How much speech can you think of? Try to create a whole conversation to really challenge yourself.

2. Can you think of what facial expressions they might use while speaking? Angry, frustrated, calm? Draw a picture/ emoji of the facial expression in the box below:

3. Can you think of four key words to describe each of the characters' behaviour? E.g. bold, courageous, childish, thoughtful, thoughtless, caring, kind, considerate, adventurous etc. Write your adjectives in the boxes below:

Chilli Challenge!

Can you write a book summary? Use the template below to help you:

The Tunnel

What is the setting?

Who is the main character?

What happens first?

What happens next?

What happens last?

The form is a worksheet titled "The Tunnel" with a green leafy background. It features five colored boxes for writing: a green box for "What is the setting?", a red box for "Who is the main character?", a red box for "What happens first?", a blue box for "What happens next?", and a green box for "What happens last?". There are also two circular icons: a girl on the left and a boy on the right.
